Objective: A highly motivated first class graduate of statistics. An altruistic person who does not just care about his remuneration but always concern about the overall growth and profit of the establishment he works in. A complication analyzer who readily adjust to changes, able to work independently and give results that transcend expectations. In a society where business tycoons are constantly in need of trustworthy and hardworking workforce, he is there not only to serve with skills and hard work but also with honesty, faithfulness and complete transparency. Prioritizes honesty and faithfulness above self and loves to go about organization matters with the same zeal, alacrity and carefulness he would set out if the company is his.
